Biographical/Historical Note

John D. Delannoy (ca. 1814-1876) was in the lumber business in Savannah, Georgia. He served several years as a city alderman and was a member of the Savannah Volunteer Guards. He married Sarah Elizabeth Falligant Delannoy and had a son and a daughter, Alexander S. and Sarah Ogden Delannoy.

Scope and Content Note

This collection consists of eleven items. Three of the first four items are indentures for the sale of land in Chatham and Cherokee counties. The other item is a grant of power of attorney from Thomas J. Buchanan of Marietta to George W. Wylly of Savannah, enabling him to sell shares of American Mining Company stock. The next four items pertain to Sarah Delannoy's claims against the United States government for damage done to her property in Sandersville, Georgia, during Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman's March to the Sea. The last three items are indentures for the sale of a half interest in the Walthour Homestead Plantation, the certified copy of John D. Delannoy's will dated May 6, 1876, and an undated list of Delannoy's children.
