Biographical/Historical Note

Stewart Huston (1898-1971) was born in Coatesville, Pennsylvania, the son of Charles L. and Annie Nan (Stewart) Huston. Annie (Stewart) Huston was the daughter of James Turner and Eliza Miller (Reid) Stewart of Savannah, Georgia. His full name was James Stewart Huston, but he seldom used the first name. At the time of his death he was vice-president and director of the Lukens Steel Company, of Coatesville, the fifth generation in the family steel business. John Armour (d. 1800) was a mason in Savannah. In 1793 he married Ruth Erwin Eirick (1754-1827). Ruth was the widow of Alexander Eirick, the son of Adam and Catherine Eirick, early settlers of Savannah. They had one child named Ruth Erwin Eirick. She married Francis Harvey Welman (1780-1861), a native of Bermuda. Welman was a merchant in Savannah. In the 1850s he was the Savannah agent for Lloyd's of London.

Ruth Erwin Welman (1811-1898), daughter of Francis Harvey and Ruth Welman, married John Hope Reid (1800-1848), a native of Scotland and merchant in Savannah. Their daughter, Eliza Miller Reid married James Turner Stewart (1834-1901), a cotton broker in Savannah. Papers of many of the above are in the collection.

Murray McGregor Stewart (1868-1928), cotton merchant and Mayor of Savannah, and Ruth Stewart, uncle and aunt of Stewart Huston are also represented in the collection.

Ruth Stewart married in 1894 William Ridgely Leaken (1861-1918), a lawyer in Savannah. Leaken was one of the electors from Georgia for President McKinley in 1896. He was Assistant U.S. District Attorney, April 1898-March 1906, and was appointed Collector of the Port of Savannah by President Taft, a position which he held until 1913. His papers consist of his personal and legal correspondence and those pertaining to his positions as Assistant U.S. District Attorney and Collector of the Port of Savannah. Mrs. Leaken was a prominent clubwoman, served as State Chairman of the Women's Committee of the Liberty Loan Bond drives in World War I and took a prominent part in the Women's Suffrage Movement. She married, second, William Duncan Judkins of Virginia. After his death she spent the remainder of her life in Savannah.

Scope and Content Note

This collection consists of family and other papers collected by Stewart Huston of Coatesville, Pennsylvania. Included are correspondence, legal papers, social notices, photographs and printed materials. In addition to the family papers there are other papers collected by Stewart Huston. The largest part of this collection consists of Stewart family papers and related lines: Armour, Huston, Leaken, Reid and Welman, all of Savannah. They include correspondence, legal papers, a slave bill of sale, and social notes. The papers of William R. Leaken and Ruth (Stewart) Leaken form the greatest proportion of these papers. Leaken was Assistant U.S. District Attorney, 1898-1906, and Collector of the Port of Savannah, 1906-1913, and most of his papers concern these two positions; there are also a few personal papers. Mrs. Leaken was a prominent clubwoman who was State Chairman of the Women's Committee of the Liberty Loan Drives, 1917-1918, and was prominent in the Women's Suffrage Movement in Georgia. Her papers contain letters from her husband and papers relating to her civic and social interests. She married, second, William Duncan Judkins of Danville, Va., and there are a few Judkins papers in the collection. In addition to family papers, the collection contains some other papers collected by Stewart Huston. They are a few papers relating to the estate of Matthew Mauve of Savannah, 1757-1788, and letter books of Dr. Richard Dennis Arnold (circa 1808-1876), prominent physician of Savannah, 1834-1876.
