Biographical/Historical Note

Bernard A. Webb, Jr. (1915-2000) was born in New Orleans, Louisiana on January 30th. After high school, Webb attended Tulane University from 1933-1934, Auburn University from 1934-1936, and Georgia Tech from 1936 until his completion of both a B.S. and Bachelor's degree in architecture in the year 1938. Upon graduation, Webb briefly attended the Universitate di Firenzi in Florence, Italy, however the outbreak of World War II interrupted his ability to attend the school. Prior to attending the Italian University, Webb worked for the Office of Ellamae E. League, an architecture firm in Macon, Georgia from 1936 until 1941 as a draftsman and designer.

Upon returning to America, Webb enlisted to serve in the United States Navy in 1941 and reached the rank of Lieutenant Senior Grade. During his tour of duty, Webb served aboard the USS Alabama as Assistant Navigator as well as the USS New York as CIC Officer and Head of Radar Department. Throughout the war, Webb received several awards for his service including the Pre-Pearl Harbor Ribbon, European Theater, American Theater, Pacific Theater (two stars), and the Victory Medal. Webb was also nominated for the Bronze Star for his involvement in the Iwo Jima and Okinawa bombardments.

After his service in the US Navy, Webb found employment with the architecture firm of William L. Pereira in Los Angeles, California in 1945. After four months with the firm, Webb returned to the state of Georgia to open his own firm on March 1, 1946 in Macon. Throughout his time in business in central Georgia, Webb produced design plans for several mid-20th century Modern homes in several of Macon's emerging suburban communities. Additionally, Webb was involved in a number of public and government projects within Macon and the surrounding areas. These projects include numerous pre-integration white and African-American schools in Laurens, Bibb, Jackson, and Jasper Counties as well as court house and post office construction and renovation projects for Dublin, Crisp County, Irwinton, and Warner Robins, Georgia. Commercially, Webb also played a great part in the development and renovation of Macon and several cities' downtown and commercial districts with the construction of several office buildings, motels, restaurants, and stores as well as the renovations of existing structures for such purposes.

As an architect, Webb's drawings earned him numerous awards both before and during the life of his firm. Prior to his service in the US Navy, Webb earned the Scarab Prize for architecture while attending Auburn University in 1936 as well as the American Institute of Architects Prize while attending Georgia Tech in 1937. While operating his own firm in Macon, Webb received House Beautiful Magazine's "Residence Chosen Climate Control Study House for the Southeast" recognition in 1951 and in 1952, Progressive Architecture Magazine also awarded him their "100 Buildings of the Year" award in 1952 for his work on the Crisp County Court House.

Scope and Content Note

The collection contains 333 rolls of architectural drawings created by the office of Bernard A. Webb, Jr., Architect firm. The materials range in creation date from 1947 until 1988, and include new construction, additions, and renovations on private residences, government and military buildings, schools, churches, banks, offices and stores, restaurants, apartment and condominium complexes, and public buildings and facilities. The majority of the building plans include floor plans, topographic plot surveys, elevations, illustrated renderings, roofing and framing plans, sections, construction details, interior schedules and elevations. Photographs, client notes, and external consultation drawings are also attributed to several drawings within the collection. Drawings of banks and military buildings are restricted. Access to these drawings may be granted by GHS staff on a case-by-case basis. All drawings involving military buildings and structures are copies retained by the creator. Original drawings, as noted by the creator, have been retained by the respective branches of the armed forces to which they pertain.

The majority of the collection includes drawings for structures within the Macon downtown district as well as several surrounding suburban communities. A large number of structures throughout central Georgia are also in the collection. Examples stretching as far north as Atlanta, as far west as Columbus, as far south as Americus, and as far east as Savannah within the state of Georgia are also within the collection. Additionally, 13 of the drawings are for buildings located within the states of South Carolina, Florida, and Louisiana. The collection also includes drawings of unidentified buildings.

The collection is organized into two series: Series 1. Architectural Drawings, and Series 2. Project Records. The project records include a copy of House Beautiful magazine, photographs, sketches, business cards, client notes, plot surveys, subdivision survey maps, presentation literature, illustrated presentation drawings, architectural literature, a 1942 copy of Guide to U.S. Navy Insignia, and Webb's 1938 Georgia Tech diploma and were originally located with the rolled drawings. These materials were arranged into series 2 and retain their associated drawing number where applicable.
